DEDICATION OF A CHINESE TEMPLE.-[From the Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise, June 7.1 The Celestials of this city yesterday dedicated their new temple, lately erected and fitted up. They began the work about 4 o'clock in the morning, when they had a feast of roast hog and other fat things, sweetmeats, &c., interspersed with singing, kneeling, bowing and praying, with the firing of a brass howitzer, borrowed for the occasion, the explosion of bombs wrapped about with bamboo splits, and an immense consumption of fire crackers. At noon they took a fresh start and had another high old time. The temple is a frame building, fronting to the east, and cost about $300. The interior is fitted up with a profusion of tinsel ornaments, at a cost. probably, of $300 more for the whole of the decorations. In the west end of the temple stands the high alter, and seated upon it are three crowned and bearded gods or kings. Two of these wooden gods have long beards and moustaches, while the beard of the third is of the sailor cut. All three are seated behind a sort of curtain, hanging down from a canopy, and looped aside that they may plainly be seen by their worshippers. In front of the alter is a table, upon which at noon yesterday was exhibited a full grown hog, roasted to a turn, with cakes, sweetmeats, &c. Before the altar a number of colored candles were burning, also dishes in which pertumed woods were smouldering Behind this table was a narrow sort of altar, supporting large candlesticks adorned with artificial flowers, colored papers and peacock feathers. In front of this came another table filled with eatables and with small candles and dishes containing burning sandal wood, &c. The temple was crowded to suffocation, and even standing room could not be found for more than theretourths of those wishing to enter. Some of the women planted ladders against the sides of the temple, and, clambering up them, managed to peep into the windows and tops of the doors. The priests, who came to the temple, in procession about noon, dressed in their long blue robes, presented quite an imposing ap pearance. The ceremonies inside, as near as we could see, consisted in blessing certain robes with which the gods were clothed, blessing the wine and food before the people, and in many bows and genuflections.

All this time an accompaniment to the chanting was played on a squeaking two-stringed fiddle, with the occasional interference of "baser" sounding instrument. At length word was passed to the crowd outside that the ceremonies inside were concluded, bombs were exploded, firecrackers touched off and for half an hour there was a grand gunpowder jubilee, in the midst of which the priest and big guns of the tribe marched out in double file andwent their ways. Many worshippers lingered within and about the temple, and even at the distance of three or four hundred yards the faithful were to be seen mounted upon the roofs of houses drinking, tea or wine toward the spot where were enshrined their gods. Even up to a late hour last night there was a great squealing of hogs in the direction of Chinatown, and the chances are that all the ceremonies are not yet over. The Celestials are as noisy in their worship as in anything else they undertake, and are only serious for the short time spent by them in bowing and muttering before the images of

A Young Dare Devil.—The St. Louis Republican of the Sth says: "A gentleman, who was a passenger, states that when the train coming east arrived at Jefferson City yesterday, the inspector proceeded, as usual, to tap the car wheels to test their soundness, when he discovered a boy under one of the cars, who had been stealing a ride from Kansas City. He had formed a sort of net of rope, in which he To arrive per lay suspended like a spider in its web, between the axle of one of trucks and the floor of the car. The boy was routed out of his place, and quite a crowd gathered about him on the platform. He was disposed to be saucy, and said he had no favors to ask of anybody. He stated that he had ridden in this way thousands of miles. As the train was moving off slowly from Jefferson City the boy got in his old place again under the car while it was in motion. The conductor was notified and stopped the train. The boy was hautedout from his lurking place, and taking up a stone was in the act of hurling it at the conductor, when the latter knocked him down. He did not "dead head" it any further on that train.

chimneys were about the most expensive part of the house. One was pulled down in Boscawen, N. H., last week, in the house in which Gen. John A. Dix was born, which was a mammoth pile of brick and mortar, measuring twelve by nincteen feet, and containing 50,000 bricks. The brick were of three sizes, one eleven inches by six and three inches thick, and the others about half that size. Over the mantelpiece were fifteen clay panels, with painted

For this purpose an enthusiastic meeting was held, and resolutions were passed to the effect that the one hundred present would pay no money into the treasury after July 1, nor be in any manner identified with the Crispins.
